Course Description:

Construction of single-family, detached homes is quite a process. From planning to application to execution to inspection, there are many steps along the way. Like a dance, a beautiful performance comes from smooth steps timed by everyone in the group. Mutual understanding and respect for each professional involved and a good grasp of the choreography helps ensure no one trips up. Learn the steps of building a new home in this unique class. No formal wear required!

- Be immersed in a photographic journey through many aspects of house construction.
- Better understand the inspections required for new home construction.
- Realize the complexity of coordinating over 100 individual tradespeople involved in house construction.
